

THE UNITED NATIONS ENTITY FOR GENDER EQUALITY AND THE EMPOWERMENT OF WOMEN

STAKEHOLDER STRATEGY FOR THE UN ROAD SAFETY FUND

2022 CALL FOR CONCEPT NOTES

I. Overall approach to UNRSF 2022 Call for Concept Notes

UN Women as the United Nations entity dedicated to gender equality and the empowerment of women recognizes the importance of road safety to countries' sustainable development and the need to integrate gender equality perspectives in international road standards and norms as road safety is a gender equality issue. UN Women implements a comprehensive approach in an integrated safe city/safe public spaces model in cities at sub-national level (Women Economic Empowerment/WEE, Elimination of Violence against Women/EVAW, Women Political Participation/WPP, addressing social norms and discriminatory practices, etc.) and also it is focused on mobility (bringing in greening initiatives).

UN Women response to this funding call may address the following issues in Western Balkans:

- Improved policy frameworks that can provide an enabling environment for women to share safe, secure, accessible, reliable and sustainable mobility, and non-discriminatory participation in transport.
- Design of gender responsive safe and sustainable transport measures as a key enabler of health, wellbeing and economic growth.
- Strengthen the integrated and participatory approaches to sustainable gender-responsive urban development by enabling and supporting cooperation and capacity building of urban planning actors.
- Address violence against women and girls in public transport, focusing on and to apply internationally validated tools and practices
- Gender data production and analysis to inform policies on Road safety

II. Multi-Stakeholder Engagement

UN Women will consider submitting proposals in collaboration with other partners – including UN agencies, non-state actors such as CSOs amongst others. Interested organizations should send a brief description of the idea outlining the roles envisaged for each partner by 30 May 2022.
